WEBQ Prepared To Give Warning Of Any Air Raids

Don't suppose too many know of the plans already worked out to inform the public of an air raid attack. Timmo didn't know to what great lengths the Civil Defense administration has gone to do it up right until I took a trip to WEBQ with Ray Altman, county Civil Defense director, yesterday afternoon.

I'm not giving out any secrets, I was told, when I relate how you're going to know if there's an approaching air raid.

In case of an attack all radio stations in the country will go on a wave length of either 640 or 1240 on the AM or standard band. There will be no other broadcasting and any messages will come out on these two wave lengths. Fortunately, WEBQ is on 1240 right now and there will be no changes necessary, either by the station in transmitting equipment, or by the radio listener who can stay right where he is on the band, because WEBQ has been assigned 1240.

Here is what would happen here, in case of raid:

The local station monitors WGN in Chicago constantly, testing the signal at 12:35 p. m. each Monday. This is the monitor station for all radio stations in southern Illinois. WGN has been connected with WGB for this signal continuously since Nov. 19, 1952.

If a raid was approaching, WGN would warn WEBQ. WEBQ then would go off the air, come back on for five seconds, go off the air again, then play a record now on hand and sealed so that it will not be picked up by mistake and played, which announces that at the request of the United States Military, all radio stations in the United States will cease operations and that all listeners should turn their dials to 640 or 1240 to await announcements.

Then a voice from different stations would take up the announcement, different stations being used to keep enemy planes off the beams. Only two wave lengths broadcasting also is a move designed to prevent beams from helping the enemy.

The local station may be standing by to receive instructions. This might be an "all clear" announcement and word to resume regular broadcasts. There might be specific instructions given for the local station to broadcast to people in its area.

This program is being expanded now to include amateur radio operators throughout the country.

While at the studio I learned that recently installed was a new RCA transmitter which will give several miles of additional coverage, especially at night. The old transmitter is being kept in reserve.

All Taxes Will Be Delinquent After Sept. 1

All taxes will be delinquent after Sept. 1, County Treasurer Paul Hilliard stated today.

He stated that the first installment of real estate taxes and personal property taxes were delinquent after June 1 and there was interest at the rate of one per cent per month charged on these taxes. After Sept. 1 the second installment of real estate will be delinquent and subject to interest.

Treasurer Hilliard also revealed that delinquent taxes will be advertised about Oct. 1 and the sale of property on which taxes have not been paid will be held Oct. 18. This year there will be a sale of personal property as well as real estate, he stated. This will be the first year the state law has provided for a regular sale of personal property, it was explained.

Rabies Vaccination Clinic Monday

Dog owners who have not had their animals vaccinated today were advised of the urgency of having this done immediately by the Harrisburg Humane society. The society is sponsoring a rabies vaccination clinic at the shelter near the fairgrounds from 5 to 7 p. m. Monday.

KIDS DAMAGE HOME—Metropolitan Detroit's current wave of teen-age vandalism and hoodlums was joined by four sub-teens, eight to twelve. The youngsters ransacked the home of a vacationing family and did $2,000 damage. Three of the vandals, above, brought to view the damage, merely shrugged their shoulders when asked to explain. The boys' parents will have to pay for the damage. (NEA Telephoto)

U. S. Takes Action To Save EDC Plan at Brussels Meeting

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UP)—The United States threw its full weight today behind the last minute efforts to save the European Defense Community (EDC) plan from disaster.

David K. E. Bruce, U. S. ambassador for European unity matters, rushed here from Paris for urgent talks with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak.

Bruce was reported to have delivered a message from U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to French Premier Pierre Mendes-France at midnight through Jean Riviere, French ambassador to Belgium.

Shortly afterward it was announced that today's last and fateful session of the six EDC ministers had commenced.

Then a voice from different stations would take up the announcement, different stations being used to keep enemy planes off the beams. Only two wave lengths broadcasting also is a move designed to prevent beams from helping the enemy.

The local station may be standing by to receive instructions. This might be an "all clear" announcement and word to resume regular broadcasts. There might be specific instructions given for the local station to broadcast to people in its area.

Complaint Names 2 Eldorado Youths
Two Eldorado youths are charged with blocking Route 45 so that a woman driver could not pass and impersonating an officer in uniform on file today in county court.

The complaints were signed by State Policeman Roy A. Lane and named defendants are John Massey and William Long.

Massey is charged with reckless driving, the complaint charging that on Aug. 19 he deliberately forced an auto driven by Sybil Qualls off Route 45 between Harrisburg and Eldorado by turning his automobile across the highway so as to block her passage.

Long, his companion, is charged with impersonating the officer, the information charging he falsely pretended to be a police officer and temporarily arresting the woman after her car was stopped.

Eisenhowers Leave for Denver Vacation

President Will Be Busy Acting On Congress Bills

WASHINGTON (UP)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower left here aboard the presidential plane Columbine at 9:24 a. m. today for a late summer vacation at Denver.

A crowd of approximately 40 persons—mostly women and children—saw the first family off from Washington National Airport. Some of the presidential staff who are remaining here also were on hand in the misty, damp weather to wish the President and Mrs. Eisenhower farewell.

Part of the staff already is in Denver where a temporary White House will be opened to make the President's trip a mixture of work and relaxation.

Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhower's residence until sometime in October will be the Lafayette street home of Mrs. John S. Doud, Mrs. Eisenhower's mother. Summer White House offices have been set up in the administration building at Lowery Air Force Base, about six miles from the Doud home.

For the next two weeks, Mr. Eisenhower will be busy judging and acting on the vast accumulation of legislation left for his approval by the departing Congress. He'll also be busy with plans for late summer and early autumn tours which will take him from coast to coast.

Former Marine Crosses Atlantic In Solo Flight

SHANNON, Ireland (UP)—Thomas H. Danaher, a former Marine fighter pilot from Wichita Falls, Tex., said today his solo flight across the Atlantic was "the end of a dream" and he was ready now to settle down.

Danaher landed his single-engine Beechcraft Bonanza plane a half-hour before last midnight, completing a flight from Argentina, Newfoundland, in 13½ hours.

He said he headed first for Paris, but found he couldn't land because of fog. So he headed back to Ireland and landed here.

Danaher, who flew Hellcats in the Pacific in World War II and jets in Korea, said the flight across was easy. He carried 170 extra gallons of gasoline as an emergency reserve.

The 30-year-old Texan said he regularly flies a plane 800 miles from Wichita Falls to Moab, Utah, where he is in partnership with his brother James in the uranium business.

Two Polio Fund Raising Events For Next Week

Two fund raising activities—a coffee and an auction—for the emergency Polio finance campaign have been announced for next week.

The coffee will be held at Nick's cafe Tuesday, sponsored by Harrisburg teen agers with June Blackard in charge, and the auction, sponsored by the Harrisburg Lions club, with Paul Hilliard and Jesse Gibbons as co-chairmen, is listed for Thursday night.

B. C. "Stomper" Adams, president of the Lions and county chairman of the emergency fund raising campaign, announced today that the coffee will be held from 9 to 11 o'clock and again from 2 to 4 o'clock Tuesday at Nick's.

Nick is furnishing the coffee and the Harrisburg Dairy the cream, Adams said, with all proceeds from the free will offering going into the Polio fund.

Miss Blackard will head a committee to handle the coffee, Adams said and will offer "pick-up and delivery service" if there are some that would like to make a quick trip uptown to have coffee and help the fund raising campaign.

Thursday, from the north porch of the court house, there will be an auction, starting at 7:30 p. m., with all proceeds also going into the Polio fund.

Mr. Hilliard states that those wishing to donate items for the auction may bring them to the County Treasurer's office in the court house, or call Mr. Gibbons, tel. 632. All items to be called for will be collected Thursday afternoon, Hilliard stated.

"We will accept just about anything that anyone wishes to donate for the auction. Just call and we will come after it," Hilliard stated.

The American Legion "Pitch-Polio" program got underway early this morning. The Legion tub was placed in the center of the intersection of Poplar and Main streets on the square and the Legionnaires were out early urging passing motorists to "Pitch-for-Polio."

Congress Gives Last Minute Approval to Bill to Extend Social Security Benefits

WASHINGTON (UP)—Congress gave last minute approval Friday to President Eisenhower's program for extending Social Security benefits to 10 million additional persons and hiking payments by $5 to $23.50 a month.

The bill, last of the administration's "must" measures, gained final House and Senate approval on the last day of the 83rd Congress. It now goes to President Eisenhower for signing into law.

The measure follows closely the recommendations Mr. Eisenhower laid before Congress in a special message last January. A House-Senate conference committee, which had been deadlocked for days, reached a compromise Friday and both houses quickly approved it.

The compromise bill makes these important changes in the present Social Security law:

Benefits Raised
Benefits—The minimum monthly benefit for a retired worker would be increased from $25 to $30 a month. The maximum benefit for a single worker would be increased from $85 to $108.50 a month, and the maximum for a family from $168.75 to $200 a month.

Coverage—An estimated 10 million additional workers would be covered by Social Security for the first time, including self-employed farmers, accountants, architects, engineers, most federal employees not already covered by civil service retirement, many state and local government employees, and many farm laborers who do not now qualify. The test of coverage for a farm laborer would be to earn at least $100 in cash wages from a single employer in a calendar year.

Some 3,600,000 self-employed farmers and two million farm workers would be covered on a compulsory basis. Physicians, dentists and Persons between the ages of 65 and 75 are prohibited under existing law from drawing Social Security benefits if they earn more than $75 a month. Under the new program persons between 65 and 72 could earn as much as $1,200 a year without losing their Social Security payments.

Taxes—The present schedule of taxes would be retained until 1970. This means that the 2 per cent tax on each employee and employer would continue until 1959; the rate would go to 2½ per cent on each in 1960, to 3 per cent in 1965 and to 3½ per cent in 1970.

The rates for the self-employed, including farmers, would be 3 per cent until 1959, 3½ per cent from 1960 to 1964, 4½ per cent from 1965 to 1969, and 5½ per cent after 1970.

Wage Base—The wage base on which employees and employers pay Social Security taxes would be increased from $3,600 a year to $4,200.

Administration Places Record Before Nation

Senate is Subject To Recall to Act on Report on McCarthy

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Eisenhower administration put its legislative record before the country today to await the ballot box verdict in November. The political infighting had already started.

Barring an unexpected special session later this year House and Senate members closed up shop on the Republican-controlled 83rd Congress as far as legislation was concerned since the House adjourned sine die Friday night at 7:39 EDT.

The Senate dined on with oratory, farewells and handshakes until 10:50 p. m. when it recessed subject to recall by its leaders for another session this summer or fall. It will act then on the report of the committee pondering censure charges against Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Despite the slim margin of GOP control in both houses, President Eisenhower got most of what he wanted in the way of new legislation even in such crucial fields as taxes, housing and Social Security.

President Speaks Monday
Mr. Eisenhower is expected to praise the accomplishments of the 83rd Congress in a nationwide radio-television speech from the summer White House in Denver, Colo., Monday night.

But Democrats began firing at the Republican record before Congress quit. Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) issued a statement saying that the 83rd Congress had clearly brought out the basic differences between the Democratic and GOP philosophies.

"The merit of those viewpoints will be decided in November by the voters of America," he said.

GOP Senate Leader William E. Knowland lost little time in filing the Republican answer. He placed into the Congressional Record a bulky document spelling out the accomplishments of the 83rd Congress from the viewpoint of the GOP majority.

He said the Eisenhower administration and Congress had worked together in scoring "notable achievements."

The final verdict will rest with the voters on Nov. 2. They will determine who occupies all the 435 House seats and 36 of the 96 Senate seats and which party will control Congress for the final two years of Mr. Eisenhower's current term.

Federal Raises Approved
The last day of the tumultuous, eight-month session was marked by two major legislative actions:

1. Both houses approved a 5 per cent pay increase for federal employees. The Senate defeated an administration-backed rider to raise postal rates 24 million dollars a year despite warnings that the President might veto the bill without a revenue-raising provision.

2. Both houses approved the final version of the administration's Social Security bill to raise benefits and widen the coverage of the old age insurance system.

Senate action on the Social Security measure—the last of the administration's "must" bills—was the signal for the House to quit as soon as the adjournment resolution was passed.

This resolution sent the House home for good but permitted a sine die adjournment of the Senate anytime before Christmas. A separate resolution adopted by the Senate permits recall of that body on five days' notice by Knowland and Johnson, acting jointly.

The record shows that Mr. Eisenhower was given substantially what he asked in his massive tax reform bill, which drew much Democratic fire because it contained no general income tax relief. The same could be said about administration legislation involving Social Security, foreign aid, the budget, St. Lawrence Seaway and extension of excise and corporate income tax rates.

Farm Prices Set
Congress also agreed to the principle of flexible farm price supports but with less leeway than the administration asked. It approved the freer housing credit

Shade Helps Increase Profits

Shade will help to increase your livestock and poultry profits this summer, says Dr. G. T. Woods, extension veterinarian at the University of Illinois.

With very little expense you can increase your egg, meat and milk production by keeping your animals and poultry as cool as possible.

If you are using a flat metal shade, try painting the top with white paint and the bottom with black. The light surface will reflect many of the heat waves from the sky. The black will absorb the heat waves rising from the ground so that they won't be reflected back to the animals underneath the shade.

Put your shade over grass rather than over dirt if you can. You can also put four to six inches of hay or straw on top of the shade roof to absorb the heat waves. Hold the hay down with a layer of woven wire fencing.

Don't vaccinate against erysipelas unless your hogs have the disease.

PROPS FOR WHEAT INCREASE—The Government support price for each bushel of wheat to farmers has increased $1.26 since 1941. Above Newschart traces rise from 1941 (98 cents per bushel) to 1954 (224 cents per bushel). Only drop was 1949 when support price dipped to 195 cents per bushel.

Provide Good Summer Pasture For Your Pullets

CARBONDALE, Ill.—Continuing to provide good summer pasture for pullets on range is one of the secrets in producing healthy chickens more inexpensively, says Scott Hinners, poultry specialist at Southern Illinois University.

Poultry ranges for pullets have the dual purpose of providing healthful, sanitary surroundings away from other flocks and of furnishing green, succulent grass of high food value which provides vitamin A requirements.

Hinners says that during the summer it frequently is necessary to move shelters to new spots on the range because pastures become short in some areas. Lespedeza furnishes a satisfactory poultry range during midsummer if not allowed to be picked too closely.

Where the pasture becomes poor and no new areas of fresh growth are available, Hinners suggests adding to the poultry ration some form of vitamin A carrier, such as alfalfa leaf meal or cod liver oil. Always supply plenty of fresh water and good feed, including a mash. Some shade, as well as plenty of sunshine, is essential.

Vitamin A deficiencies developing in the pullet flock may be observed when the birds show emaciation, weakness, and ruffled feathers. In younger chicks there is slow growth from three to four weeks of age, drowsiness, weakness, staggering gait, emaciation, and ruffled plumage.

Care Will Pay Profits on Grass Waterways

Fertilize and reseed your grass waterways this fall if they were damaged by dry weather and heat. W. F. Lytle, agricultural engineer at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, says that a waterway kept in good condition will more than pay, in soil saved, for repair costs.

Take out silt deposits with a manure lift or a rollover scraper, and fill in low spots before you reseed. Lytle suggests. Don't plow a furrow alongside the waterway or the runoff water may follow the furrow instead of the grassed area.

It's a good idea to make only a few repairs as are needed. Keep animals and implements off the waterways when they are water-soaked. Mow them regularly to build a good sod, and be careful as you cross the waterway when you are mowing.

Lytle recommends timothy and reedtop as good grasses to seed. Bromes work well in the northern half of the state and alta fescue in the southern half. If you have lots of wet, soggy ground, you can sow reed canary grass for a good stand.

In harvesting alfalfa hay it is important to retain the leaves as much as possible. In fact, this is important in most any legume hay. By weight fully half of the alfalfa is in the leaves. They also contain 70 per cent of the plant's protein and 90 per cent of its carotene. If half of the leaves shatter during the haying operation (it then still qualifies as U. S. No. 2 alfalfa hay) it amounts to about the same as losing 700 pounds of linseed meal and 250 pounds of corn per acre. Shattered alfalfa leaves may make good fertilizer, but they are much more valuable when first fed to livestock.

When alfalfa hay in the swath nears a moisture content of 30 per cent the leaves are crisp enough to crumble or shatter with little agitation. At this stage the stems contain about three per cent moisture while the leaves have 16 per cent or less moisture. To get the most out of alfalfa hay the farmer needs to keep a close watch on it.

Rain damage to hay is less severe soon after mowing than later. At first the plant cells still are alive and working, retaining their nutrients. As the plant cells die they lose their selective permeability and yield up their nutrients to the leaching action of rainfall, increasing the severity of the damage.

It is a good idea to make a record of repairs needed by farm machinery as their use is finished for a time. Necessary parts may then be ordered immediately so they will be available in time for the next use of the machine.

Persons owning home freezers should remember that nearly all cooked foods may be preserved for at least a week or two by freezing. It is a way to prevent food waste and may be the means of saving time at a later date.

Maturity is something for apple growers to keep in mind when the fall apple harvest approaches. Just when is an apple mature?

Browning of the seed is not a reliable test for determining the time to pick—and certainly most growers want to harvest a mature crop. Seed browning in the apple varies with the variety and with the weather.

An apple is mature at the stage which will permit the development of the most desirable flavor and texture that particular variety is capable of producing when the fruit is ripened off the tree. In most varieties the best indication of maturity is a change in the fruit's ground color from green to a greenish-yellow.

Harvested fruit should be kept in a shady, well-ventilated spot until it is packed and stored.

The time is nearly at hand when farmers will know how well they mapped out their farm plans last winter. That brings on this week's observation that "autumn harvests follow winter plans."

Accidental Death Lurks Down on the Farm

TRACTORS LEAD AS CAUSE of farm accidents. TAKING BULL BY THE NOSE at the end of a strong staff is the only safe way for this chore.

By KENNETH O. GILMORE
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

Death lurks in the cow pastures and barnyards of America. And it has peculiar ways of striking down the farmer and his family.

Drownings, for instance, are not uncommon out on the range lands and barnyards of America. Next on the list is the construction of a ditch is a natural spot for a child to fall into after a heavy rain.

Growing food and tending livestock can be as dangerous as driving in holiday traffic.

During 1953 some 3900 farm residents were killed in occupational accidents. This puts agriculture second to none for fatalities. Next on the list is the construction industry which had roughly 2500 deaths last year.

This is why the Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with the National Safety Council, is launching a high-gear, forward-looking safety program. It was just recently kicked off by the observance of National Farm Safety Week.

"I feel sure we can cut the farm accident rate in half by 1963, but, if we are going to reach this goal, we will need to re-

Wheat Acreage Quotas to Solve Few Problems

Recently approved wheat acreage allotments for next year's crop will cut yield and income, but probably won't reduce the supply much.

L. F. Stice, extension farm economist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, says that the 1955 wheat marketing quotas and acreage allotments will probably only stop the build-up of wheat stocks and not reduce them.

Only 19 million acres at average yields would produce enough wheat to meet legislative "supply goals," Stice points out. That's less than one-third of the 55-million-acre minimum allotment for next year and less than American farmers have raised every year since 1863.

Supply goal for next year is the normal year's domestic consumption of 703 million bushels plus a normal year's exports of 287 million bushels plus a reserve supply of 297 million bushels. That totals one billion 287 million bushels.

Because we already have one billion 900 million bushels of wheat on hand and will use and export about 900 million bushels of it, we need to produce only 300 million bushels next year to meet the "supply goal." However, with average yields the minimum acreage allotment of 55 million acres will produce 935 million bushels. Add this to carry-over stocks and the wheat supply on July 1, 1955, will be one billion 836 million bushels.

To balance supply with market demands by acreage controls, the policy set by present laws, farmers would need to accept far greater restrictions than they voted this year. In the face of further loss of income, they would hardly be likely to approve such tight control.

Farm Animals Can Get Sunburned

Farm animals can get sunburned, say University of Illinois veterinarians.

Certain types of plants produce a chemical that makes light-skinned animals sensitive to sunlight when they eat them.

Alsike clover and other legumes may cause a condition known as trifoliosis. In sheep, it is called bighead. Affected animals refuse to eat and they have swollen tongues and lips, drool and itch. The white skin swells and sloughs off in some areas, leaving ugly scars. The best way to prevent this condition is to provide as much shade as possible for animals on pastures.

St. Johnswort, rape and buckwheat cause a similar condition when light-skinned animals eat them during the flowering stage. So keep your stock away while these plants are blooming. Otherwise the animals may lose their hair, get a sunburn and become blistered.

These symptoms resemble those for several livestock diseases. If they appear in your herd, call your veterinarian at once, and move the animals off pasture into a shady place.

One tablespoon of potassium chloride (muriate of potash) in each gallon of water for three to seven days, or fifty parts of terramycin or aureomycin mixed in every million parts of water will help clear up blue comb disease in your poultry flocks.

AIR-PRIMED

A built-in hand pump has been adapted to a portable lubricator which uses air-power to force grease into fittings. The unit pumps grease through a 3-foot flexible hose and permits one-hand operation, says Capper's Farmer. It holds 5 pounds of grease and weighs only 15 pounds.

Announce Marriage of Miss Della Dale to John P. Lacastro
Announcement is being made of the wedding of Miss Della Dale, daughter of Mrs. George Leeke, 422 South Granger, and John P. Lacastro, Las Vegas, Nevada.

A simple candlelight ceremony was held at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, Aug. 12, in the Little Church of the West, Nevada's famous chapel in the desert, in Las Vegas. Rev. Thomas J. Daly of the Independent Lutheran church officiated at the service while Bob Stevenson, Las Vegas, Nevada, presided at the organ. "The Lord's Prayer," "I Love You Truly," and "O Promise Me" were played.

The bride was attired in an iridescent steel blue street length dress fashioned princess style with a high collar and bouffant skirt. The sleeves were elbow length. She wore black accessories and a large white orchid, and carried out the traditional "something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue."

Mrs. Thomas Foster, Harrisburg, was matron of honor, and Thomas Foster, Harrisburg, served as best man.

A wedding dinner followed at the Desert Inn.

The bride attended the Harrisburg Township high school and was employed at the AAA Insurance Bureau in Harrisburg. The bridegroom attended high school in Erie, Pa., and Gannon college, also in Erie. He served in World War II as a pilot with a first lieutenant rating.

Church Official Fears No Reprisal On Return Home

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—A church official from East Germany said today that he will return to his Soviet-dominated homeland without fear of reprisal for his statement that an unbridgeable gulf exists between Christianity and Communism.

Dr. H. G. Jacob of the Evangelical Church in the Communist portion of Germany told the Second Assembly of the World Council of Churches Friday that there "was a gulf between Christianity and communism as practiced in East Germany that can never be bridged."

In the boldest attack yet made before the council by Iron Curtain delegates, Jacob said communism "reduced God to a product of a primitive mankind's anxieties and Jesus Christ at best to a revolutionary who failed."

Communism remains "diametrically opposed" to Christianity, he said.

Later in an interview Jacob said that he will go back and work for his church.

"This is my service in East Germany. I say the same things in East Germany that I say here today," he said.

Jacob said that some pastors have been arrested in his nation for speaking their minds, but among the thousands of ministers in the eight dioceses under his jurisdiction "only a very few" have become Communist sympathizers.

World Disarmament Remote

In remarks prior to a plenary session of the council, Secretary-General of the U. N. Dag Hammarskjöld said that the influence of Christianity "and a change in the whole political atmosphere" would be required to effect world disarmament.

He told newsmen that the "whole trouble is in the present world spirit."

"If the church will approach the problem not in a spirit of false compromise or appeasement," Hammarskjöld said, "and assert its deepest influence to educate the public and show the moral obligation based on the deepest ideals of the church, then perhaps we will see the answer reflected in the general attitude of the people of the world."

Hammarskjöld said he believed the chances of establishing world disarmament were "rather far away" because of the world's political cleavage.

Twenty-four states now have constitutional amendments to prevent the diversion of highway user tax revenue to non-highway purposes, the New York State Automobile Association reports.

THE STORY: Luke Miller's fight to abolish lawlessness in Sage City has brought about open warfare with Jacob Fugger, who rules the town. Fugger sends Bill Bleek, his henchman, to smash the presses of Miller's weekly newspaper, and Wes Tancred, known in Sage City as John Bailey, has wrecked Fugger's store. The result is a terrific fist battle between Tancred and Bleek and for the first time Bleek is beaten.

The next morning Luke Miller boarded the eastbound train for St. Louis.

"I only hope they have the parts in St. Louis," he said before he left. "If they have I'll be back in three days, but if I have to go on to Cincinnati."

"Then we'll miss an issue," said Mrs. Miller.

"It'll be the first time," Miller frowned. "And the last."

He went off and Mrs. Miller, Tancred and old Mose resumed their monotonous sorting of the type. They worked steadily until noon and made scarcely an impression on the heap. Tancred ached in every muscle but oddly enough had greater mental peace than he had had in a long time.

After lunch they worked straight through until six when Mrs. Miller called a halt. "I can't tell a 'b' from a 'p' any more," she declared. "There's only so much of this you can do at a time."

"We're more than half through," said Tancred. "We'll finish tomorrow."

Mrs. Miller and Mose went off. Tancred washed up and walked to the Bon Ton Cafe.

As he left the cafe Jacob Fugger called to him from across the street. "You, Bailey, come over here."

Tancred looked at Fugger, then turned away deliberately. Fugger yelled after him, but Tancred continued on. Fugger went into the store.

Bleek stood just inside. "Find me Smith," Fugger said.

Bleek went out and Jacob Fugger turned and surveyed his store. The clerks were putting away merchandise, preparing to close up for the day. Fugger's eyes came to rest upon Laura Vesser. He studied her for a moment, then walked over to the counter.

Laura regarded her employer in alarm.

"I've noticed that there are quite a few men coming into the store since you're here. And they're buying things they haven't got any use for," he said.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Fugger," began Laura. "I've sold them, only the things they ask for."

"It's none of your business if they can use the merchandise or not." He nodded shrewdly. "Lee Cinnaird's been coming a lot. He's taken up with that whitsname who works for Luke Miller."

"John Bailey?"

Fugger grunted. "Bailey, yes. He stopped that wild Texas man from annoying you yesterday."

He pursed up his lips. "On your way home, would you mind stopping at the newspaper office and telling this, whitsname, Bailey, that I'd like to see him."

Laura hesitated, then suddenly nodded. "Very well."

"Good."

Laura got her hat and jacket. Fugger waited until she had left the store, then suddenly shouted to his other clerks, "Close up now."

A few minutes later when the clerks had gone, Hong Kong Smith entered.

"That bruiser of yours said you wanted to see me."

"This man of yours, Harpending? I haven't seen him around today."

Smith's eyes narrowed. "Neither have I."

"Has he left for Texas?"

"He doesn't like Texas any more," Smith chuckled. "Or maybe it's Texas that doesn't like him. What do you want with Harpending?"

"Do I really have to tell you that, Smith? All right, I'll spell it out for you. I want two or three men for a month or so, until things get squared away."

"Gunfighters, eh? Hmm, Harpending's all right, but I've got a man down in Texas who'd put two bullets into Harpending while Harpending was trying to draw a gun."

Fugger looked steadily at Hong Kong Smith. "Can you get him up here for me?"

"You can buy anything... or anyone... for money," said Hong Kong Smith.

Tancred was sorting out type when he heard the door open. Laura Vesser had entered the shop and was coming toward him. She said stiffly, "I'm here on an errand for my employer. He wants to see you."

"He'd stoop to anything?"

"And you?" she flashed at him. "I saw what you did to the store."

"But you didn't see what Bleek did here." Tancred pointed to the type he was sorting. "Three of us have been sorting all day. And Mr. Miller's gone to St. Louis to get new parts for the press that Bill Bleek broke."

"Why do you have to fight Fugger and Bleek? Miller's quarrel isn't yours."

He said, "Sometimes a man can't help but fight."

Public Hearings

On Sen. McCarthy

To Begin Aug. 30

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Arthur V. Watkins said today the special Senate committee studying charges against Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy will start public hearings Aug. 30 as scheduled.

The Utah Republican, who heads the committee, conferred with Edw. Bennett Williams, McCarthy's counsel, and E. Wallace Chadwick, counsel for the committee.

There had been a possibility that the hearings might be postponed to Sept. 7, Watkins announced after today's conference, however, that there will be no postponement.

Congress Pay Bill Withdrawn

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate made it plain Friday night that it isn't ready to vote Congress a raise in pay.

Just before the Senate adjourned, Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) proposed a hike in the salaries of Congressmen and federal judges to $22,500 a year—the same salary received by cabinet members.

Johnson, who is retiring to run for governor of Colorado, said he was so proud to be a Senator in his 18 years in the chamber that he would work for nothing. But he said members deserved more money.

He withdrew the amendment—also politically explosive—after several colleagues protested it did not belong in a bill raising the pay of executive branch workers.

Senate Session Near Record

WASHINGTON (AP)—If Senators could put in for overtime, the 83rd Senate would be one of the best paid in history.

When it recessed Friday night, the Senate had been in session about 23 hours less than the Senate of 1949. But the 1949 session, the longest in recent years, lasted until Oct. 19.

According to press gallery statistics, the 1954 Senate put in 1,122 hours during 156 days. In 1949, the Senate worked 1,144 hours and 53 minutes in 186 days.

The present Senate could break that mark since it plans to return to act on censure charges against Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

GOP Leaders Predict Veto Of Postal Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican leaders stuck by their predictions today that President Eisenhower would veto a bill granting a 5 percent pay raise to 1,500,000 postal and other federal workers.

Congress approved the measure Friday night in its rush for adjournment despite vigorous administration protests that the bill did not include companion postal rate increases to offset the cost of the pay boosts.

Although the bill would cost the government about 336 million dollars a year, the Senate slapped down an amendment by Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) to hike first class and airmail rates one cent each.

Knowland's amendment, which had wholehearted presidential support, would have substituted a set of lower pay increases, combined with the mail rate hike, for the 5 percent raise. It would have given the government new revenue of 240 million dollars.

Knowland predicted during Senate debate that Mr. Eisenhower would veto any measure that does not include a postal rate increase.

House GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck (R-Ind.) said that so far as he knows the President "has not reversed his position" against any bill lacking a mail rate boost.

The measure calls for minimum raises of $200 a year for 500

Don Liddle Hurls 4-0 Shutout Over Pirates, His 6th Win for Giants

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

Like the widow's mite which became the mightiest gift of all, the Giants could well win the pennant on a "Liddle" contribution by the smallest and most modest man on their pitching staff.

Little Don Liddle shrugged off his loss as he stood wringing sweat from a scale and registered 157 pounds after notching his sixth victory, a 4-0 three-hit shutout over the Pirates that kept the Giants two full games ahead of Brooklyn and 6-1-2 games over his ex-Milwaukee teammates.

Liddle doesn't smart games often and he has become known as the throw-in pitcher in the big deal with the Braves, which doesn't disturb him in the least.

"But even though Johnny Antonelli has won 18, I will always feel in my heart if we win the pennant that my six victories or however many I may win were a factor, too," he said today.

Mueller Hits Jackpot

Liddle held Pittsburgh to three singles while Don Mueller supplied all the Giant punch with a grand slam homer. It marked the fourth straight complete game for Manager Leo Durocher's rejuvenated pitching staff—all wins.

The Indians boosted their American league lead to 3-1-2 games by defeating the Orioles, 7-2, while the Yankees lost to the Red Sox, 4-3. The White Sox stayed 8-1-2 behind in third place by topping Detroit 8-2, as Virgil Trucks became the first American leaguer to win 18 games and regained the strikeout lead with 134, adding six.

The Dodgers hung on gamely by topping the Phillies, 6-4, handing Robin Roberts his 11th defeat against 18 victories by putting over four runs in the first two innings on homers by Carl Furillo and Duke Snider. Sandy Amoroso also clouted one for Brooklyn. Billy Loes gained credit for his ninth win and seventh in a row.

However, Milwaukee lost a full game of ground by suffering a 3-1 setback in Chicago to the Cubs and Cincinnati took over fourth place from Philadelphia by defeating the Cardinals, 3-2, on the seventh victory of Joe Nuxhall.

Washington and Philadelphia in the American were rained out.

Rush Halts Braves

Bob Rush, after a shaky start, pitched steadily to win his eighth game for the Cubs and substitute center fielder Bob Talbot shone at bat by getting three hits to score all three runs against Milwaukee.

The Cardinals, in losing, tied a National league record by making six double plays. They were the seventh team ever to do it.

Larry Doby had a two-run triple and Al Rosen a two-run homer in a productive first inning that enabled Cleveland to coast to its victory. It was Baltimore's 10th straight defeat. Art Houtenman won his 13th game but Hal Newhouser helped him by stopping a rally in the seventh and shutting out the Orioles thereafter.

Willard Nixon pitched four-hit ball to beat the Yankees for the fourth time this season and also drove in the winning run at Boston with an eighth inning double. Bill Skovron homered for the Yankees.

Recent reports said that Dees would enroll at Indiana, Illinois and Northwestern.

Palace, Ronnie's Win Kiwanis Games

Only two games were played in the Kiwanis league Friday because of rain. In the two games played, Palace triumphed over the 15-9, and Ronnie's jammed out a 17-4 decision over Pankey's.

Palace gained its way to the final game of a three-team play-off for the championship of the second half with an eight-run rally in the fifth inning. Henshaw was the winner and Boyett the loser.

King was the winning pitcher for Ronnie's and K. Mitchell the loser.

Olson Chops Out Unanimous 15-Round Decision Over Castellani

Voting All Bobo

Judge Fred Apostoli voted the fight to Olson 85-80 while Judge Jack Downey scored it 87½-77½ and Referee Ray Flores 89-76.

Both fighters weighed 160 pounds and overtones from Friday morning's hassle on the scales continued to echo around the drafty pavilion where the fight was staged.

Al Naiman, Castellani's manager, insisted that Olson lost the title on the scales when he failed to make the weight in his first attempt. Naiman added he was all for a rematch in San Francisco offering the champion another $125,000.

Merchants Play Paducah Giants Here Tomorrow

The Harrisburg Merchants will entertain the Paducah Giants, a fast-stepping colored ball club, Sunday afternoon at the town park diamond. The local nine staged a story book finish in a game with the Giants on July 18 to win 9-5 on the strength of a grand slam home run by Dick Romonosky.

Don Wallace, a well known figure in local sports, has been added to the Merchants' pitching staff and will be the probable starter against the Giants. This move will free Billy McNew, who has shown signs of regaining his old hitting form, for another position. Gene Trammel, who has hurled two consecutive six hitters, will be ready for relief chores.

The Paducah club will probably start Jones, who held the Merchants in check for eight innings before, with DeNeal as his receiver.

The following Merchant lineup, which averages under 20 years of age, will probably take the field in search for the team's 13th win of the season: F. Williams ss, Romonosky c, Guley 3b, Parton lb, McNew cf, Logsdon 2b, Spurluck rf, Price lf, Wallace p, Bob Williams, Tom Dunbar, Gene Trammel, Dick Odle and Jim Hay will be ready for action if needed.

Playoffs Next Week in Kiwanis Baseball League

Playoffs have been scheduled in the Kiwanis leagues next week with the winners to be decided in a three out of five game series. Games will be as follows each day:

3 p. m. — All-Stars of III league which were selected about a month ago vs. Ronnie's, winners of both half-season periods, at town park; winner of Kitty league, Knoff vs. Triple A at Taylor Field.

5 p. m. — Shells vs. Jaycees, town park; Walker's vs. Cokes, Taylor Field.

The Kiwanis club will present the outstanding player award in each league, the winners to be decided by a vote of players in each league after season play is completed.

Each league winner will also be awarded shirt emblems as in previous years.

The Kiwanis league has scheduled an all-star game with Carmi to be played under lights Saturday night, Sept. 4 at Carmi.

'Catfish' Wilmoth is One of Four From Area in Plans for Illinois

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Southern Illinois contributes four candidates for the University of Illinois football team which begins practice for defense of its Big Ten title Sept. 1. Holding prominent assignments in preparations for the season opener against Penn State in Memorial Stadium Sept. 25 are juniors Bob Graeff, Murphysboro, and Dean Renn, West Frankfort, members of the 1953 squad, and sophomores Fred Wilmoth, Harrisburg, and Jack Mills, Benton.

Neither Graeff, a halfback, nor Renn, an end, accumulated enough playing time for a letter last season, but Coach Ray Eliot intends to use them more frequently during 1954.

Graeff, a 5-9, 175-pounder, has won respect of both coaches and teammates for his aggressiveness and determination on the football field. Although not as fast as some Illinois runners, Bob has enough speed to go all the way if he breaks into the clear. He demonstrated that in the spring game of 1953 when he scored on a 64-yard pass to break the game wide open for the victorious Blue eleven.

End Is Major Problem

Bob was a starter for the White team in this year's spring game, and he came through with a 4-6 average in seven ball-carrying excursions. He also had a punt return of 10 yards to his credit.

End is a major problem spot for the 1954 Illini. Thus Renn, who now has a year of experience, will get considerable attention when fall drills get underway. Dean, a 6-3, 196-pounder, excels as a pass receiver. He is tall, has fair speed and a good pair of hands, and fakes well.

If Renn can demonstrate ability to play defense, for which he has sufficient size and agility, he can nail down a first team berth for this season. He is one of nine candidates who are considered possible successors to John "Rocky" Ryan and Cliff Waldbauer, 1953 ends who were lost via graduation.

Wilmoth Figures High

Eliot also hopes to get help in 1954 from his two Southern Illinois sophomores. Wilmoth figures a bit higher in Illini's plans, since he has a long track record, but Mills is slated for a thorough trial at guard.

Wilmoth is the biggest player on the Illinois roster. He stands 6-6 and weighs 265 pounds. Since he moves well for a player of his size, "Catfish" is considered a leading candidate for a regular spot in the line which Eliot is building anew.

Fred has been on an exacting diet to get his weight down and should be able to keep his weight down once drills get underway. He needs experience, but his size is an asset on defense. His high school letters in basketball attest to his agility.

Mills replaces graduated guard John Bauer as Benton's favorite son on the Illinois roster. He will attempt to follow in Bauer's footsteps as a guard for the Illini.

Rugged Schedule

Jack faces stiff competition for a squad berth this year from lettermen Jan Smid, Wally Vernasco and Don Tate, and several returning squad members. However, he is considered an excellent prospect, and has good size—6-1, 200 pounds.

Mills was a football, basketball, and baseball letter winner at Benton high school.

The Penn State game Sept. 25 opens one of Illinois' most rugged schedules which includes Ohio State Oct. 9 ("I" Men's Day).

Nash to Play Legion Nine at Stonefort Sunday

The Nash baseball club will travel to Stonefort Sunday seeking its 12th win of the season against the Stonefort American Legion team.

Stonefort will field a strong club of veteran players, among whom will be the Hill brothers, Aggie Miller, Bynum, Henshaw and Sim Richardson, all well known players of this area. Richardson will do the catching for Stonefort, but the hurler has not been announced.

Bledig will be back of the plate for Nash, with either Parker, Roark or J. Nolen starting on the mound. Other starters will be Shewmake, Fulkerson, Karnes, Zeigler on the infield and Sisky, K. Nolen and Harrison in the outer garden.

Nash now sports a team batting average of .329, with seven of the eight regulars batting above the .300 mark, topped by K. Nolen's .412.

The club has won nine of the last 13 played and has a winning streak of four in a row.

Game time Sunday will be 1:30 p. m. and players are requested to meet at the town park diamond at 12:30.

THINK IT OVER!

This little fellow has gotten himself all tangled up—just romping around—but he's not so dumb. He has sense enough to sit down and think things over. Chances are someone will come along and give him a hand. Alone he might have worked himself into a panic.

Isn't that the way with our daily problems? Some have simple solutions; some require the help of true friends, and oftentimes divine guidance. So often our problems have moral implications, for there is a "right" and a "wrong" way to accomplish almost every task. That is why it is so very important that each little problem be solved correctly.

The tightest snarls of life can be untangled and our difficulties overcome if we sit down quietly and consider each in the light of God's wisdom. Why should we be confused when we have the Bible and the Church as our unfailing guides?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

'Christian Giving'

I Corinthians 6:1-2; II Cor. 8:1-9
GOLDEN TEXT: "It is more blessed to give than to receive." (Acts 20:35)

INTRODUCTION: This lesson on "Christian Giving" will be taught and studied this Sunday in Sunday schools all over the United States and in most churches of every denomination. There will be many Sunday school teachers who will have a difficult time teaching this lesson because they do not practice scriptural giving.

The Bible teaches that we are to pay God the tithe (one-tenth) of all our income. We are to pay this tithe upon the first day of the week (Sunday) through the storehouse (our church treasury). When He says, "Bring ye all your tithes into the storehouse," He does not mean send them, either. He means that if you are physically able, you should be in God's house on Sunday.

I THE HOW AND WHEN OF GIVING (I Cor. 16:1-2)
The Apostle Paul has just reached the climax in this epistle. In the 15th chapter he discusses the resurrection of Jesus. Then he comes immediately to say, "Now concerning the collection." In other words, every person who believes in the resurrection of Jesus is anxious to give of his means to send that gospel message around the world.

Paul says that giving is not to be spasmodic, but regular. We are not to wait until all other costs of living are paid, before giving to the Lord. The tithes is to come out first! It is sacred unto God. It is not yours.

The proportion is up to you, but the minimum is the tithe. We know many people who are giving up to one-third of their income to the Lord. He never fails to bless such generous giving. No person has ever suffered from giving too liberally to God.

II THE SPIRIT OF GIVING

(II Cor. 8:1-5)
Paul used a bit of psychology here. He knew that the subject of giving was a very touchy and tender subject. Some people are easily offended at this point. Therefore, he began telling those people at Corinth about the giving habits of the people over in Macedonia. He said that out of "deep affection and poverty" they had given "beyond their power"; that is, more than he expected they could afford. They even pleaded for him to let them give more. He explained the reason for this wonderful spirit in verse 5 when he said, "they first gave their own selves to the Lord."

Friend, you give yourself to God, and the giving will take care of itself. Your money is a part of you, and you just cannot withhold from God when you give yourself to Him.

III FAITHFUL GIVING

(II Cor. 8:6-9)
"As they abound in other graces" (v. 7), Paul tells the Corinthians to "abound in this grace also"—the grace of giving. Consider Christ (v. 9) who left all of the riches of glory that he might give himself completely for your salvation.

Evidently the Corinthians had pledged to help the poor at Jerusalem, and then had forgotten to pay that pledge.

Some people say they do not believe in making a pledge to the Lord through their church. Yet, those same people make pledges to pay insurance, light bills, water and fuel bills as well as many other items. It is just as convenient excuse for not doing their duty toward the Lord's work.

CONCLUSION: Pledge or no pledge, the primary thing is to be liberal and faithful in giving to the cause of Christ. There are many ministries at a standstill today, because so many people are failing to do God's will in the matter of giving. Are you one of these people?
